2.1.1.4	Please provide the definitions of “current smoker”, “daily smoker”, “occasional smoker”, “former smoker” and “never smoker” used in this report.
	A person is a current smoker if he/she declares that he/she smokes tobacco daily or occasionally. Daily smoker is a person that currently smokes every day and occasional smoker a person that currently smokes less often then each day. Former smoker is a person that declares that he used to smoke, but does not smoke anymore, never smoker a person that declares that he/she never smoked in his lifetime.
2.1.1.5	Please provide a brief explanation of the trend in smoking prevalence in the adult population in the past two years or since submission of your last report.
	The Survey on the Use of Tobacco, Alcohol and Other Drugs is a one-time study. It can be compared to EHIS study in 2007. CINDI study gives an opportunity to compare 2012 with 2008 in 25-64 years old population. We do not have data to show the trend in the last two years. Based on all these studies we can conclude the following: there were beneficial changes in the proportion of smokers between 2007 and 2011/12 which were brought about by the introduction of a complete ban on smoking in all enclosed public and work places in 2007 and regular increases in taxation and prices of tobacco products. The proportion of smokers decreased mainly in 2007 in 2008, where after it started increasing again, but has not yet reached the baseline level, i.e. the level before the introduction of the ban on smoking in all enclosed public and work places. The proportion has been on the rise again in recent years among women, while there are no changes in men.
